

Foreign Source Income for 2006

Many United States citizens earn money from foreign sources. These taxpayers must remember that they must report all such income on their tax return, unless it is exempt under federal law.

U.S. citizens are taxed on their worldwide income. This applies whether a person lives inside or outside the United States. The foreign income rule also applies regardless of whether or not the person receives a Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement, or a Form 1099 (information return).

Foreign source income includes earned and unearned income, such as:

1. Wages and tips
2. Interest
3. Dividends
4. Capital Gains
5. Pensions
6. Rents
7. Royalties

An important point to remember is that citizens living outside the U.S. may be able to exclude up to $82,400 of their 2006 foreign source income if they meet certain requirements. However, the exclusion does not apply to payments made by the U.S. government to its civilian or military employees living outside the U.S.
